

July 23, 2006

Living with Legends

The Hotel Chelsea is a legend, there's no doubt about it. The historic Manhattan building has been home to countless writers, artists, musicians, performers, and other creative types for over a hundred years. Living with Legends is an amazing slice-of-life blog that chronicles the tapestry of personalities at the Chelsea. Written by Debbie Martin and her husband Ed Hamilton, the blog interviews current and past residents, profiles odd characters, recounts moments that could only occur at the Chelsea, and otherwise serves as an overflowing repository for stories, links, and bits of assorted Chelseana. Our recommendation: Learn a little about the history of the Chelsea and then check in for an extended stay at what one commenter called "the most consistently fascinating blog on the interweb." You'll be glad you did.

Email this • Add to del.icio.us • Subscribe to this feed

10:00 AM in Arts, Personal, Regional | Permalink | Comments \(0\)